Evidently the new commission. which is composed of but three members, does not intend to lose any time about proceeding with the work, for the bids are to be opened on June 27.

The new road work advertised for Frederick county is the Emmitsburg pike, four miles north from Thurmont, a link of the road to Gettysburg. The bids for this piece of the work are to be opened on June 27 and the stretch is about four miles in length. The other work in view is the resurfacing of the mmitsburg pike, the bids for this to be opened on July 5. This section of the road held by his neighbors and the fact ducted and to arrange for offices. continues for a distance of about four and one half miles.

This will make a total of about eight and one-half miles of road work to be done in Fredrick counbe undertaken this summer, so that it can be completed before bad weather in the fall and winter. The improvements of this section of the road will be welcome news to autoists, who have long been complaining of its condition. # CONVENTION

Wilson Neutrality Lauded by Glynn in Keynote Speech.

No Obstacle to Renomination of President Wilson With Marshall as His Running Mate.

St. Louis, June 15.-With the keynote of "Americanism and peace, preparedness and prosperity," the Democratic national convention began its session with not a single element in sight to disturb the harmonious renomination of President Wilson and Vice President Marshall.

When William F. McCombs, the na tional chairman, called the convention to order, 12,000 delegates, alternates and spectators packed the big Coliseum to the roof. Members of the na tional committee, members of President Wilson's cabinet and party lead ers from all over the country had places on the platform.

Plaster medallions of Washington, Jackson, Jefferson and Cleveland look. ed down upon the delegates from the decorations, which consisted solely of American flags. The only picture of President Wilson in the hall hung in 'America First."

Vice presidential booms, wilted by President Wilson's direct word that snowy wastes of Siberia and the President Marshall, were brought to the convention, but only as favorite son compliments.

Down under the speaker's stand, direct telephone and telegraph wires to the White House carried momentary Republican party has been in control reports of the proceedings. All pros- of this nation eighty per cent of the pect of a fight in the convention had gone glimmering with William J. Bryan's announcement that he did not propose to press certain planks before on the beat, the safe in the bank, the the resolutions committee, and that he would campaign for the Democratic nominee.

When Mr. McCombs had called the convention to order, J. Bruce Kremer, secretary of the national committee, read the call, and then former Governor Martin H. Glynn, of New York was made temporary chairman and delivered the keynote speech.

MUST STOP, HE DECLARES

Mr. Wilson Says They Are Trying to Work it on Political Parties in Alien Countries' Interest.

Washington, June 15 .- In a Flag day speech. President Wilson charged that there were some foreign-born persons in the United States who were trying to levy a kind of political blackmail on the American political parties in the interest of foreign governments

This, the president declared, must be stopped. He was sounding what some of his advisers said would b€ one of the issues of the coming presi dential campaign.

Speaking of disloyalty in the United States, the president said:

"It proceeds from a minority, a very small minority, but an active and subtle minority, working underground but also showing its ugly head where it may be seen, and it is this minority that at this very moment is striving to levy a kind of political blackmail or wreak its vengeance at the polls.

"That is the sort of thing agains which the american people will turn That is the lesson which I come to remind you of today.

"There are some men doing their best to undermine the government of the United States in the interest of that which is foreign to us," he said "There is disloyal activity in the Unit ed States and it must be absolutely crushed out.

"You know we have derived our citi zenship from every country of the world. It is, therefore, not singular that sentiment in this country should be disturbed by what is going or across the water. But while our senti ments may be disturbed our loyalty to the United States ought never to be disturbed. I want to be scrupulously just in assessing the circumstance which have brought about a division of sentiment in this pountry and I be lieve that a great majority of those whose lineage comes from the nations at war are just as loyal as native

The president took a rap at the criti ism of his foreign policy by saying that sentiment about the flag must be backed up by action.

"I need not remind you," he said 'how much sentiment has been poure: put our sentiments into poetic words This is not a day of sentiment. Sen timent is all right, but it does no profit to the best service of the coun try unless it has a definite purpose

"I realize personally, my fellow-citi zens, the peculiar significance of the flag of the United States at this time because there was a day not many years ago, when, although I though I knew what the flag stood for, it had not penetrated my whole conscious ness as it has now. If you could have the subtle impact of intrigue and have an entrusted authority are trustee not only of the power but of the very spirit and purpose of the United States, you would realize with me the solemnity with which I look upon the symbol of our unity and power.

The president, introduced by Secre tary of State Lansing, spoke to a great crowd gathered on the Washington monument grounds, immediately after he had reviewed the Flag day prepar

PONIES ADD ONE MORE VICTORY

Take Thriller from Mountain- fore the onslaught of the Raiders' Correspondents Send in Items of Given Plenty of Excitement. Sherman and Goodwin Pitch. and 4-3.

The Ponies took another step upward on Wednesday when they delighted the fan's by winning from Martinsburg 3-2. The game was a thriller from start to finish. Men were left on base about every inning through fast work of the fielders, and the hard-working pitchers each of whom had nine strike-outs to his eredit.

Howe, formerly of York Springs. was the target for the bleacherite from the time he first appeared behind the bat to the end of the contest, and he responded to their raillery by slashing out two two-baggers, one of which scored the Mountaineers' pair of runs. His passed ball in the final session, together with Goodwin's two wild heaves with men on second, contributed materi ally to Gettysburg's scoring.

A word about Sherman. It i doubtful if he ever pitched a mucl better game since he has been in Blue Ridge circles. Once with men of second and third and one down he struck out the next two batters, fanning for all three outs this inning and another time, when the same condition appeared, he struck out one and forced the next to ground an easy one.

Stein's two fancy catches in the early sessions, Seiffert's fast world at short, Durboraw's three hits, on of which scored the winning run and Howe's foul catch as he ran into an automobile were high light Gettysburg scored one in the sec ond when Copeland drew a passtole second, and tallied on Goodwin' first wild pitch. Another was adde in the fifth when Boyne got a his went to second on Bigler's out an scored on another wild one. The win ning tally came in the final inning Sherman got a glean single an Oyler, running for him, took third o a passed ball, scoring when Durbo raw cracked a safe one right ove second, while the crowd yelled tr umphantly.

Sherman was in serious trouble in the sixth when the Mountaineer got their two runs. With one out G Rawlings was passed and Morris wa safe when Herman juggled hi grounder. Percy forced Morris at second, and Blue was passed, filling the bases. Howe lifted one far inte the swamp, Rawlings and Percy counting, Howe was far off second and Koehler sent a fast one to Seiffert who relayed the ball just a fast back to the plate, catching Blue trying to score. It was a thriller and an anxious moment was safely

The Apple Crop.

Apples will be a mixed crop this year, says Dr. H. A. Surface, state economic zoologist. Generally speak ing, the red summer varieties are showing up the best, but only in certain sections of the state.

This year all the apples grown ought to get to market without much trouble. Last year's crop was so big that even that portion of it which did get to market was not all sold at retail. Many of last year's Pennsylvania apples are in storage

Doctor Surface attributes the trouble with the apple crop principally to the dry and cool weather which Pennsylvania has experienced throughout the spring up to June 1. This caused the blossoms to drop before the calyx could close around the pedicel and begin to form the fruit.

CHAPTER II.

Mr. Campbell Pope was a cynic. He had cultivated a superb contempt for those beliefs which other people cherich. Most men attain success through love of their work; Mr. Pope had become an eminent critic because of his hatred for the drama and all things dramatic. Nor was he any more enamored of journalism, being in truth by nature bucolic, but after trying many occupations and failing in all of them be had returned to his desk after each excursion into other fields. First-night audiences knew him now, and had come to look for his thin, sharp features. His shapeless, wrinkled suit. that resembled a sleeping bag; his flannel shirt, always tieless and frequently collarless, were considered attributes of genius; and, finding New York to be amazingly gullible, he took a certain delight in accentuating his eccentricities. At especially prominent premieres he affected a sweater underneath his coat, but that was his nearest approach to formal evening dress. Further concession to fashion he made

Owing to the dearth of new productions this summer, Pope had undertaken a series of magazine articles descriptive of the reigning theatrical beauties, and, while he detested women in general and the painted favorites of Broadway in particular, he had forced himself to write the common ; laudatory stuff which the public demanded. Only once had he given free rein to his inclinations and written with a poisoned pen. Tonight, however, as he entered the stage door of Bergman's Circuit theater, it was with a different intent.

Regan, the stage-door tender, better known since his vaudeville days as "The Judge," answered his greeting with a lugubrious shake of a bald head. "I'm a sick man, Mr. Pope. Same old trouble."

"M-m-m. Kidneys, isn't it?"

wife, isn't she? She's a trifle old, I'm, was none the less sweet and friendly, afraid.

Heve me, she'd fit any chorus. "Why don't you ask Bergman?"

Mr. Regan shook his hairless head. "He's dippy on 'types.' This show's full of 'em; real blondes, real brunettes, bold and dashin' ones, tall and stateties, blushers, shrinkers, laughers, and sadlings. He won't stand for make-up; be wants 'em with the dew on. They've got to look natural for Bergman. That's a group of young, fresh-cheeked girls who had entered the stage door and were hurrying down the hall.

"I've come to interview one of Bergman's 'types;' that new beauty, Miss Knight. Is she here yet?"

"Sure; her and the back-drop, too. She carries the old woman for scenery." Mr. Regan took the caller's card and shuffled away, leaving Pope to watch the stream of performers as they entered and made for their quar-There were many women in the number, and all of them were pretty. the principals. Meanwhile he exchanged greetings with the star-a clear-eyed man with the face of a scholar and the limbs of an athlete. The latter had studied for the law; he had the drollest legs in the business, and his salary exceeded that of Supreme court justice. They were talking when Mr. Regan returned to tell the interviewer that he would be received. Pope followed to the next floor and entered a brightly lighted, overheated dressing room, where Lorelei and her mother were waiting. It was a glaring, stuffy cubbyhole ventilated by means of a hall door and a tiny window opening from the lavatory at the rear. Along the sides ran mirrors, beneath which was fixed a wide make-up shelf. One section of the wall was devoted to telegraph and cable forms, bearing messages of felicitation at the opening of "The Revue of 1913." A zoologist would have found the display uninteresting; but a society reporter would have reveled in the names and especially in the sentiments-inscribed upon the yellow sheets. Some were addressed to Lorelei Knight, others to

> Mrs. Knight answered for her daughter. "Lorelei has too much sense for that. She succeeded easily, but she isn't spoiled."

Then, in response to a question by Pope, Lorelei told him something of her experience. "We're up-state people, you know. Mr. Bergman was looking for types, and I seemed to suit, so I got an engagement at once. The newspapers began to mention me, and when produced this show he had the part of the Fairy Princess written in for me. It's really very easy, and I don't do much except wear the gowns and speak a few lines."

"You're one of the principals," her mother said, chidingly.

"I suppose you're ambitious?" Pope

Again the mother answered. "Indeed she is, and she's bound to sucseed. Of course, she hasn't had any experience to speak of, but there's more than one manager that's got his eye on her." The listener inwardly eringed. "She could be starred easy, and she will be, too, in another sea-

Pope resented Mrs. Knight's share in the conversation. He did not like the elder woman's face, nor her voice, nor her manner. She impressed him as another theatrical type with which he was familiar-the stage mamma. He found himself marveling at the dissimilarity of the two women.

"Of course a famous beauty does meet a lot of people," he said. "Tell me what you think of our flourishing little city and our New York men."

But Lorelei raised a slender hand. "Not for worlds. Besides, you're making fun of me now. You are considered a very dangerous person, Mr.

"Did you see the crown jewels-the King's Cabachon rubies?" Lorelei asked.

"Only from the front. I dare say they're as counterfeit as she is." Miss Lynn turned, revealing a countenance as shiny as that of an Eskimo belle. With her war-paint only half applied and her hair secured close-

Campbell Pope scoffed.

"Isn't it true about the king of Seldovia? Didn't she wreck his throne?" eagerly queried Mrs. Knight.

"I never met the king, and I haven't examined his throne. But, you know, kings can do no wrong, and thrones are easily mended."

But Mrs. Knight was insistent; her eyes glittered, her sharp nose was thrust forward inquisitively. "They say she draws two thousand a week. and won't go to supper with a man for less than five hundred dollars. She says if fellows want to be seen in public with her they'll have to pay for it, and she's right. Of course she's terribly bad, but you must admit she's done mighty well for herself."

"We'll have a chance to see her tonight," announced Lilas. "Mr. Hammon is giving a big supper to some of his friends and we're going-Lorelei and I. Demorest is down for her 'Danse de Nuit.' They say it's the limit."

"Hammon, the steel man?" queried the critic, curiously.

"Sure. There's only one Hammon. But nix on the newspaper story; this is a private affair."

"Never let us speak ill of a poor Pittsburgh millionaire," laughed Pope. "Scandal must never darken the soot altogether different to the star of the of that village." He turned as Slosson, the press agent of the show, en

"Here are the new pictures of Lorelei for your story, old man," Mr. Slosson said. "Bergmann will appreciate the boost for one of his girls. Help need any more stuff I'll supply it."

"Don't go to the trouble," Pope hastfly deprecated. "I know the story Now I'm going to leave and let Miss Lynn dress."

"Don't go on my account," urged Lilas. "This room is like a subway station, and I've got so I could 'change' in Bryant park at noon and never shock a policeman. "You won't say anything mean about

"I promise." Pope held out his hand to Lorelei, and as she shook it her lips parted in her ever-ready smile. "Nice girl, that," the critic remarked, as he and Slosson descended the stairs "Which one-Lorelei, Lilas, or the female gorilla?"

"How did she come to choose that for a mother?" muttered Pope.

"One of nature's inscrutable myste ries. But wait. Have you seen Brother Jim?"

"No. Who's he?" "His mother's son. Need we say more? He's a great help to the family. for he keeps 'em from getting too proud over Lorelei. He sells introductions to his sister.'

Campbell Pope's exclamation was lost in a babble of voices as a bevy of "Swimming Girls" descended from the enchanted regions above and scurried out upon the stage. Through the double curtain the orchestra could be faintly heard; a voice was crying, "Places."

'Some Soul Kissers with this troupe, eh?" remarked Slosson, when the scampering figures had disappeared.

"Yes. Bergman has made a fortune out of this kind of show. He's a friend to the 'Tired Business Man.' 'Speaking of the weary Wall street workers, there will be a dozen of our ribbon winners at the Hammon supper tonight.'

"Tell me, is Lorelei Knight a regular-er-frequenter of these affairs?' "Sure. It's part of the graft."

"She has to piece out her salary like the other girls. Why, her whole family is around her neck-mother brother and father. Old man Knight was run over by a taxicab last summer. It didn't hurt the machine, but he's got a broken back or something. Too bad it wasn't brother Jimmy. You must meet him, by the way. I never heard of Lorelei's doing anything really-

For the moment Campbell Pope made no reply. Meanwhile a great wave of singing flooded the regions at the back of the theater as the curtain rose and the chorus broke into sudden sound. When he did speak it was with

"It's the rottenest business in the world, Slosson. Two years ago she was a country girl; now she's a Broadway belle. How long will she last, d'you think?"

Held Bible and Rudder.

Some years ago Japan was neither so free nor so friendly with other nations as she is today. In those old days when a foreign ship entered the Japanese ports the captain was obliged to place his Bible and rudder in charge of the chief officer of the port and leave them there until he was ready to sail. Of course he wouldn't sail without either, and the Japs could easily keep tabs on the movements of all ships in their harbors.

The Astor Family.

The Astor family is descended from John Jacob Astor, who was born at Waldorf, a village near Heidelberg, Germany, in 1763. He came to New York in 1783. Astoria was the name of the Oregon trading station which he founded in 1811, 100 miles north west of Portland, on the Columbia river. Its derivation is obvious.

Hill-hesitation is galling to your average driver. His sporting-blood boils when a 1910-Complex flivs past on the first long pull with apparent ease and matter-of-factness. Invariably he bawls-out his motor and labels it "a cheese." But—ten-to-one, the motor itself is guiltless. The real cause is faulty lubrication.

If your car does the hesitation on the grades, look first to the kind of oil you are using.

The Atlantic Refining Company, the oldest and largest manufacturers of lubricating oils in the world, have produced a group of four motor oils that answer every lubrication question, under any and all driving conditions. Polarine, the leader of the group, is the correct lubricant for eight out of ten cars. The alternatives are Atlantic "Light," Atlantic "Medium" and Atlantic "Heavy."

At least one of these four is the exact oil for your particular motor. Your garageman will advise you which to use to get 100-percent results.

Atlantic Motor Oils bear the same relation to lubrication that Atlantic Gasoline-the accepted standard-bears to fuel.

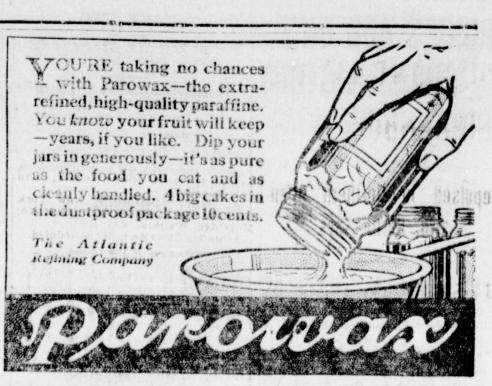

Advise with your garageman at once on this matter of motor oils. His long experience with Atlantic products and all kinds of cars will prove valuable to you.

Read up on this subject. We have published a handsome and comprehensive book about lubrication. It is free. Ask your garage for it. If they cannot supply you, drop us a postal and the book will be sent you without charge.

The workmen on a newspaper during that time asked for a large increase

But why?" asked the owner. "Because there is a constitution." The tramway men struck for higher wages, and the only justification that they put forward was that there was now a constitution. Yet men of all classes cheered in the lustlest manner for the constitution. Throughout the month of August smuggled tobacco was openly sold in the streets at a very cheap rate, buyers and sellers alike considering that the constitution allowed men to set aside the law that had made the sale of tobacco a government monopoly.

Height of Elephants. The largest of all proboscideans is found by British museum naturalists to have been a straight-tusked ele phant, at least 15 feet tall, which has been made known by bones discovered within the last three or four years in a trench at Upnor, on the Medway. The tusks are believed to have been 16 feet long. The American imperial mammoth hitherto regarded as the largest elephant, was 131/2 feet tall, and the true mammoth probably did not exceed 91/2 feet. The modern Indian elephant is a foot taller than this, while the ordinary African elephant may reach 111/2 feet.

Arthur was born on February 29, so is birthday comes but once in four rears. At his first day in school, having been asked his name, address, etc., he was further questioned as to his birthday. "My birfday was the last day in ebwary, two years ago," was his surorising reply.

Game of Months.

It is only necessary that the leader should know this game. He starts by asking in order from left to right first: "What month are you going away?" The player might answer, "June." Then of the next one he asks, "What will you wear?" or "What will you do?" "What will you take with you?" etc.-any question he thinks of, but the answer to all must begin with the initial of the month chosen.

As an answer for the first question might be "Jacket and jumper;" for No. 2, "Jump and jig;" for No. 3, "Jar of jelly," etc.

The answers in all probability will be confused, as the players at first do not catch the trick. Each one who makes a wrong answer is told "That will not do." When one or two "catch on" they may make the game funnier by giving ridiculous answers.

High Flying Birds. There are two animals that puzzle

naturalists more than any others. They are nature's submarine and aeroplane, the whale and the eagle. It is known that whales occasionally descend as much as 3,000 feet below the surface of the sea-a depth at which. by the pressure of the water, they ought to be crushed flat. Why they are not injured scientists have yet to discover. It is this pressure which prevents a modern submarine descending even 300 feet, let alone 3,000.

Eagles have been seen through telescopes to the with apparent ease from 30,000 to 40,000 feet above sea level. says Pearson's. At that height no human being can live, owing to the rarefaction of the air. How the birds live and fly at far greater heights than man can endure for long is a question still to be answered.

The Sneezewood Tree.

The speeze wood tree is a native of Natal and other parts of South Africa. Its odd name was given to it because one cannot saw it without sneezing violently, says the London Tit-Bits. The dust of its wood has just the same effect as the strongest snuff and is so frritating to the nose that workmen are obliged to sneeze even when they are planing it. If a piece of wood of this tree is put in the mouth it is, found to have a very bitter taste, and no doubt it is this bitterness which prevents insects of any kind from attacking the timber of the sneezewood tree. The fact that insects find it so disagreeable, makes its wood very valuable for work that is required to last a long time.

demand this season, the home dressmaker will find herself compelled to attempt one. This model is both stylish and simple to make. In medium size the costume requires 3 yards 36-inch and 4 yards 44-inch material. The wider material, or the figured organdy, is used for the tunic, and a study of the cutting guide will show that it is best to lay the tunic sections on a lengthwise fold of the organdy. The piecings may be cut from the selvage, being placed on a lengthwise thread. The foundation has the front and back gores arranged on the lengthwise fold of material the same as the skirt, with the piecings for the gores cut from a selvage of the batiste. There are also many good looking dresses in combinations of cotton crepe and taffeta. Pongee and crepe de chine go well together, too. In fact, there are many unusual ways of combining materials of widely contrasting design and texture. When in doubt seek some of the models exploited in the smart shops. then copy them in materials as nearly like the original as possible. One is not apt to go astray if the > the difference in this early part of the nineteenth century, when Mr. Stephen son has succeeded in drawing coaches by steam, and the middle of the eighteenth, when coaching was in its prime and we who rode had the excitement of an occasional robbery. The highwayman was not the brute who now murders first and robs afterward, but was often chivalrous, especially to women. When I was a girl of twenty I traveled from London to York with my father, and on the road we met one of Buffalo, N. Y. those gentlemen. We were passing a the evening when we heard an order to the coachman to stop. A masked man rode up to the coach window, holding a pistol in our faces and demanding our valuables. His voice was soft and musical, his hand was white and shapely. and I noticed the lace that fell over it was of the finest texture.

My father had but little money with him, but did have a valuable squffbox that had been presented blm by the that if he would send it to our house in York his messenger should receive five times its value and no questions asked. The robber scarcely seemed to bear him, so intent was he upon me.

"Good sir." said the robber, "I would not take your snuffbox but for the opportunity it gives me to take it to your house myself, and if I decline th price you put upon it please set the fact down to the influence of the young lady beside you, whose beauty and innocence prevent my retaining any article of yours. I have the honor, sir, to bid you good evening."

Raising his hat with all the grace of a courtier he turned away, directing the coachman to drive on.

That winter was a gay one in our set in town, and after attending numerous entertainments at the homes of our friends we concluded to return sand candles, and the costumes of the guests were of the richest and wildest pores do not absorb impurities into variety.
